

The FAN Charity – Policies Safeguarding policy and Procedures

Introduction

The FAN Charity brings the community together in structured listening groups. The FAN Charity will endeavour at all times to provide services and activities which minimise risk and are as safe as we can make them. We aim to protect our staff and volunteers and participants from harm or maltreatment, prevent the impairment of health or development, and promote people's life chances. We will work in partnership with other local / national agencies to put in place appropriate procedures for reporting, making referrals, accessing training and specialist support, as and when required. Safeguarding in Wales is governed by the Social Services and Wellbeing \(Wales\) Act 2014. Wales has one set of Wales Safeguarding Procedures for everyone working in contact with children, young people or adults who may be at risk. The Procedures are freely available by app downloadable to a phone or tablet using the link: <https://safeguarding.wales>. We promote the use of the app and compliance with the Procedures. Any serious breach of safeguarding needs to be reported to the Charity Commission.

Recruitment

The FAN Charity will seek to recruit using appropriate procedures, safeguards and checks. Candidates are interviewed and we will take up references for all posts and volunteer roles prior to appointment.

Policies

We will provide an induction programme for all new volunteers and staff, appropriate training to enable all personnel to undertake their roles safely and confidently, and ongoing training as benefits the personal and professional development of individuals and of our organisation.

We will regularly review our recruitment procedures in response to changes in legislation and systems external to our organisation e.g. Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS and barring list checks)

Volunteers

It is important that all volunteers are treated fairly, are given clear expectations of their role within the organisation and are supported to fulfil that role. Our volunteers will adhere to all relevant FAN Charity policies at all times as a representative of our organisation.

Safeguarding Officer

Our appointed Safeguarding Officer is Sarah Duncan-Jones (from 03.03.18) and will be available to all staff and volunteers to speak to, if they have any concerns, issues or complaints regarding the safety, well-being or conduct of volunteers and staff.

Sarah Duncan-Jones can be contacted on Tel: 07880-630553; Email: fanofficer@ymail.com

The Safeguarding Officer will have access to appropriate training to support them in this role. They will liaise with appropriate local and national agencies, contribute to appropriate policies, maintain records and keep confidentiality, adhere to and promote this policy within the organisation, and support or provide access to support for individuals suffering harm or abuse.

Awareness of harm and abuse in our organisation

Harm is caused by accidents, deliberate abuse (physical, sexual, emotional, financial), neglect (deliberate or not) or factors such as bullying, prejudicial attitudes or a failure to enable a person to participate in activities that are open to most of their peers. All incidents of harm to anyone involved in our service will require an appropriate response to reduce risks and improve our service. Deliberate acts of harm (sexual, physical, emotional and financial) and neglect are abuses against the person and will incur disciplinary proceedings and require reports and referrals to social services, the police, other professional bodies and the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) if in regulated activity.

FAN specific circumstances

FAN meetings are open to all and are not advertised as being for those people who are known or likely to be “at risk” as per the definition of the SSWBA/Wales Safeguarding Procedures (anyone over 18 years of age who is experiencing or is at risk of abuse or neglect and has needs for care and support whether or not the authority is meeting any of those needs), and as a result of those needs is unable to protect himself or herself against the abuse or neglect or the risk of it / under the age of 18 years who is experiencing or is at risk of abuse, neglect or other kinds of harm; and who has needs for care and support (whether or not the authority is meeting any of those needs)). Should any FAN member be “at risk”, this might only be known to FAN staff if they choose to disclose it, as such background information is not sought on joining FAN. However, the opportunity to make friends and develop community relationships may be especially attractive to those who are isolated, lonely and displaced. These factors may mean that individuals could be vulnerable to abuse, exploitation and dependent or inappropriate relationships. FAN staff and volunteers will be trained in understanding these factors and will be alert to comments aired in the meetings that might suggest a person is at risk. Staff and volunteers will sensitively and discreetly ask if they can help the individual and will always offer a willing ear to a member who appears in distress. This can be difficult in Zoom, but could be followed up after a meeting.

The Safeguarding Officer will be identified to the participants by FAN Facilitators. The role that they hold and the reason for having a Safeguarding Officer will be explained to all the participants who will be encouraged to contact the Safeguarding Officer if they have any concerns, to do with FAN, for themselves or others.

We actively discourage individuals from sharing personal contact details, physical addresses or email addresses, direct messaging etc. to avoid unwelcome encounters beyond the sphere of FAN oversight. Members who receive unwanted “friend requests” or similar from other members should share this information with the Facilitator or Safeguarding Officer. Members who persist with unwanted attention will be asked to leave the group. Virtual contact may have raised the possibility of out-of-meeting contact and no-one should feel pressured into a relationship beyond the boundaries of FAN activities. All participants read the Open and Closing statements each meeting stating FAN’s ground rules of kindness and respect.

Reasonable cause to suspect

Having reasonable cause to suspect that a person is suffering, has suffered or is likely to suffer from abuse, neglect or harm, is the point at which it is expected that an organisation would make a safeguarding report to social services.

The abuse, neglect or harm may take place over a number of incidents or might be a single, serious incident. It is better to seek advice than to do nothing. It is not the role of anyone in the organisation to determine whether abuse has taken place, simply to report what you know to the statutory agencies, whose duty it is to investigate.

Where there is reasonable cause to suspect abuse to our service users, volunteers or staff, the Safeguarding Officer and deputy are empowered to act accordingly.

- To log all conversations regarding the issue
- To sign and request signatures on reports and statements
- Confidentially seek advice from expert sources
- Share concerns (with consent where required and appropriate) internally with senior staff / Chair of the Board

- Share concerns and make referrals to external agencies such as Social Services, the Police or National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) as appropriate to the circumstances
- Make a referral to the Disclosure and Barring Service regarding staff or volunteers in regulated activity whose conduct is harmful to service users and when they are removed from regulated activity

Confidentiality

All reports and logs (including personnel records) will be kept securely and confidentially according to our data protection policy and confidentiality statement, or in line with DBS Code of Practice if appropriate, until or unless it is necessary to share this material with the agencies named above. Information will be shared on a “need-to-know” basis only.

Communication

We will communicate this policy to all staff, trustees and volunteers using appropriate methods, formats and language. A copy will be available on the website and on request for all members and the public using appropriate formats and language to get the essence across. We support and encourage all volunteers and staff to speak up and contact the named Safeguarding Officer where there is

- a concern (a worry, issue or doubt about practice or treatment of a volunteer or colleague, or their circumstances), or
- a disclosure (information about a person at risk of or suffering from significant harm) or
- an allegation (the possibility that a volunteer or staff member could cause harm to a person in their care)

Whistleblowing

Staff or volunteers can report things that aren't right, are illegal or if anyone at work is neglecting their duties, putting someone's health and safety in danger or covering up wrongdoing.

In the first instance they should speak with the Safeguarding Officer or the trustee with appropriate responsibility*.

In all cases, we would prefer our members and personnel to use internal processes whenever possible to make a report as above, but this does not prevent them from making a report or referral to statutory agencies such as Social Services or the Police, in their own right as a private individual. We also support our staff or volunteers to raise concerns or to disclose information, which they believe shows malpractice - whistle-blowing (disclosure in the public interest - <https://protect-advice.org.uk/>).

To encourage everyone involved in our organisation to understand that safeguarding is everybody's business, we will put safeguarding on the agenda of trustees and facilitator meetings, provide opportunities for discussions about issues and concerns and reflect, review and to continue to learn and improve in our safeguarding responsibilities.

Something occurs that raises concern, however small

Wherever possible, gain the consent of the individual to share what they have told you with others who can help, with Social Services, if appropriate

Individual who is concerned contact Safeguarding Officer

When recording note clear details, times, dates, get signatures where possible from the person reporting and the person recording. Record decisions and actions, by whom.

Keep all information securely

If single or cumulative evidence comprises reasonable cause to suspect abuse, neglect or harm, contact Social Services;

- a) To discuss the situation and seek guidance
- b) To make a safeguarding report
- c) Always note what was said and who spoken to
- d) Follow up the verbal report with written details
- e) Give your contact details and expect a feedback call within 7 working days (ideally this should be action of the Safeguarding Officer but in practice this may not always be possible)

Some situations do not need consent:

If it is a crime, report.

If the person is at immediate risk of severe harm or threat to life, report
Call 999

If the situation that puts others at risk, report
If the individual is under undue influence or coercion, report.
Contact social services

Best practice - consent

It is better to get consent if you can, but you cannot ignore a situation and do nothing about it just because you cannot get consent. You could start with a “what matters to you” conversation, and discuss with the adult what they would like and what would help the situation. They might think of others who can help or ways to protect themselves. You may be able to signpost them to other helpful agencies. (This may reduce the risks, you will monitor the situation).

Every adult who has capacity (defined under the Mental Capacity Act) has a right to make decisions for themselves that others might deem to be “risky” (as long as this does not put other people at risk) and the right to consent or withhold consent to a safeguarding report being made about them.

If you make a report without consent, this should be noted on the information for social services, and their response should not be adversely affected. The adult has a right not to co-operate with safeguarding procedures, unless the Police are involved.

- Tell the person involved what you are going to do, even if they may not be happy about it.
- Involve the person at risk as much as possible without placing them at greater risk of harm.
- Support the individual to have an advocate – an informal advocate who is appropriate (not implicated in a safeguarding situation) or an Independent professional Advocate appointed by the local authority.

Reminders:

Do not investigate but bring together evidence, information you may already hold within the organisation.

Make sure to share information within the organisation, there may be several pieces of information which add up to reasonable cause to suspect....

Contact social services for support and advice, they can guide you through in handling the situation.

FAN Trustees recognise that even having a very small role in safeguarding can be very stressful and are committed to supporting you where difficulties arise.

Reporting to the Charity Commission

Make a serious incident report at any time that you think you have not acted well or fast enough regarding safeguarding which could have harmed someone. Call them and ask them for their advice if they would expect a report from you beforehand - 0300 066 9197. Take the view: what can we learn from this, how can we improve our safeguarding. Use all the notes and information that you hopefully have compiled through the process.

Reviewing our practice

Original creation: 03/18 Latest review: 12/20 Next review: 12/21

Review how FAN can better prevent a safeguarding situation developing.
Review our activities and preventative strategies, training, support, actions and put better safeguards in place if we can.

If the safeguarding issue is picked up by FAN about an external situation, how can we best support the person involved and how did our processes work? Are there changes that need to be put in place for the future.
